1. After he had reviewed the notes which the White House Fellows had taken and then left on the table in the conference room, Dick Helms told me that he was quite positive [] did not leave all of his notes. Dick was certain that he had drawn an Agency chart which he did not leave and was reasonably sure that he had taken three pages of notes, only one of which he left. Dick took a rather dim view of this and asked me to make sure that the people who are running this program know about it. (I will ask Matt Baird to ensure that this is done.)

2. I called on [] to talk with him about hunting at [] and more specifically about his unclassified letter to Bob Bannerman on this subject. I found him to be a very attractive and reasonable man; however, he would not back down on his request for permission to hunt, to which I acceded. (See my 25 October memorandum to DD/S on this subject for further detail.)

3. Jack Earman reviewed with me the case, the file on which is getting rather thick, concerning complaints which have been made by []

[] They are next-door neighbors and the complaints concern excessive noise at night. Based on the evidence we have, it would appear that the [] have more right to complain about the [] than the [] have about the []. Nevertheless, before responding to the [] most recent letter, I suggested that Jack ask the Office of Security to make a discreet check on what the community thinks of the [] and whether there is in fact no basis for complaint by the [].
